

Hourglass

Hollowed out until your soul is sold
Fate is almost like a sinking stone
Find you by yourself again

You carry Anvils in
Your eyes
It's like you never wanna compromise again
Your words come
In thousands
Heavy like mercury
Uncomfortable in my own skin

So long
Are you waiting for Violins
Just like you
Give an inch
Take a mile
Take me down the drain with you (take me down all the way with you)
Best laid plans
Laid to rest
My thoughts run rapid through the hourglass

Seasons of this all encompassing red
Believe every single word that was said
Whenever we find providence

My conscience
Burns red with
The tenseness
Your caffeine hands the evidence
Around my Neck again
Was already
Crazy when you let me in
You brought this on your self again

Did you like it
Did you like it
Did you like it
When it came and found you wrapped around yourself and then it claimed your everything